FROM THE EDITOR

Greetings Vodel!

I still want your stories!

I am actually... overwhelmed. After my last letter asking for you stories, I got stories... a lot of them. The first of those stories will be featured in this issue under the title: "Under the Bucket," and I'm just so excited about it.

Our individual stories are what bring us together as a club and as Mandos. There is a shared interest out there from the rawest recruit to the grizzled old veteran. Reading through the submissions that we've gotten so far, I just can't wait to share them with all of you. So watch for them in the coming months.

I have a lot of stories to tell, but I want more.

Please, if you have a story to tell, message me on the forums, my forum name is mporter... I know, not very original, but it gets the job done... or you can email the Public Relations officer at pr@mandalorianmercs.com. Either way, it will get to me.

3RD ANNUAL INTER-REGIONAL ARMOR PARTY

By: Druj Jes (Adjutant General)

We just had our 3rd Annual Inter-Regional Armor Party or IRAP on July 12th. We had 12 clans in attendance from a total of 3 regions. We had somewhere between 90 and 100 attendees at the venue for the event. We also had members from our sister clubs, the 501st and the Rebel Legion come out in support, as well as beginning their own mando journeys. This event is a full 8 hours of building, eating, connecting with others, and great photo ops with others from the club. There were tons of free items, raffles, swag handouts, and an event shirt available for purchase.

This event is very special to me as the host and originator. A couple years ago this started more with the intent of being a regional event, however some great friends from Nexu clan made their way over for the first one of these breaking the regional border. After that we ran with the idea of breaking down borders, physically and metaphorically. Ever since the first was a success we have extended the invitation to any member of the club who can make it here. The past two years we have had people from as far as Cerar and Wampa in attendance. It is truly awesome to see so many people in one place all working to the same goal, building armor, and building relationships. I always open up my home to attendees to stay, and my yard for camping typically housing 12-20 people. When you attend this event, you are treated as family, because you are family.

In the coming years we intend to continue to expand the event in our new space. There is parking for hundreds of vehicles, a playground for kids, many restrooms, and tons of space to spread out and work. There are already some ideas for expanding this further with the possibility of having a 2-day event, adding food trucks and more. The sky is the limit with where this can go, and what this can grow into. Whatever we end up doing to grow, I can wholeheartedly say you do not want to miss the 4th Annual IRAP in 2026. Keep your eyes out for updates, as we are already starting to look at selecting the dates.

MEET THE DEATH WATCH

By: Raymond "Scarif Mando" Gayleard (PRO)

When Din Djarin was a child, his world got caught in the middle of the galactic civil war. As B2 Super Battle Droids gunned down the town's folk in Din's village his parents desperately tried to evade the onslaught. As the B2 droids closed in they sadly ran out of time. In a last ditch effort to protect their son, they hid him away in a storage area. Almost immediately after closing the doors a loud explosion shook all around Din. There was but a pause before the door to the storage area opened revealing a Super Battle Droid looking down at poor Din.

Din braced for the inevitable as the droid lowered its blaster arm down and aimed at him. Suddenly, blaster fire erupted from behind the Super Battle Droid. The droid fell back, clearly disabled. Stepping forward through the smoke and chaos of the battle, an outstretched hand reached to Din and beckoned him to come. The figure before him wore blue armor and a very distinct helmet. Din climbed out of the cellar and into the arms of this mysterious warrior. As

Din emerged he saw many more warriors all around the

"WHEN WE LOOK AT THE LIVE ACTION DEATH WATCH... A LOT OF US SEE WHAT WE ASPIRE TO BE WITHIN THE MMCC."

square clad in the same armor, fighting the Battle Droids that has laid waste to his home. A second later they were flying. This mysterious warrior took to the sky, getting little Din Djarin to safety. From there what we know is that Din was raised in the fighting core, presumably on the moon of Concordia.

In Mandalore's past, the warriors of Mandalore were banished to the moon of Concordia. It was there that Death Watch grew under Pre Vizsla. Later when Din meets Bo-Katan for the first time he is told he is a "Child of the Watch". Later in season 3 of the Mandalorian it is explained by the Armorer that "Death Watch is no more" and that "it splintered into many warring factions". So just who are these saviors that came to the rescue of the young Din Djarin? Many people hypothesize that the Live Action Death Watch warriors we see on screen in season one of The Mandalorian are one of those first factions, still carrying the name. Others wonder if these saviors merely rescued Din and then left him in the care of the fighting core. In any case one thing we can be certain of; these are different Death Watch from the ones we have seen in comic and cartoons.

Death Watch have for a long time had a history of savagery and ruthlessness. Particularly under the command of Pre Vizsla. Even the hero Bo-Katan partook in the brutal tactics. The Death Watch lived in infamy. We see a massive shift and divide within the Death Watch during the Clone Wars when Maul kills Pre Vizsla in one-on-one combat. This is where many people believe the "warring factions" started.

When we look at the Live Action Death Watch soldiers from Season 1 of The Mandalorian, I think a lot of us see what we aspire to be within the MMCC. We see the in-universe depiction of Mandalorians coming to the aid of those in need. We see a Mandalorian warrior taking a child by the hand in a time of chaos and need. How many of us have taken the hand of a child while at a troop? Perhaps even a hospital visit. It is moments like that when our characters come to life. Our real world mission is reaffirmed. To many within our ranks, the LADW (Live Action Death Watch) build is a canon symbol of the MMCC core values. It is a group of characters I think we all can connect with. Just for those few minutes of screen time.

If you are interested in building a LADW costume, please be sure to check out the Post Imperial Canon CRLs!

This costume is featured with four variations, no stripes, one stripe, two stripes, and you guessed it, 3 stripes. The markings are believed to denote rank among the LADW soldiers. There is a wealth of knowledge on the forum in regards to this build. Be it this CRL or another, remember the mission.

This is Our way.

BATTLECRY IS HIRING!

The Public Relations Team has grown and undergone some changes in the last few months which means that BattleCry has a couple of new open positions for Staff Writers!

If you have a love for Star Wars and would like to share that love with others, we want to hear from you!

REQUIREMENTS

- Someone who can produce, at minimum, one article per month comprising 1000 to 1500 words, and who can meet hard deadlines.
- An ability to come up with article topics for themselves. While writers will be assigned topics most often, we encourage our writers to write what they are interested in and submit them for consideration.
- An ability to conduct interviews, either by text or voice.
- Someone who can learn from constructive criticism and will not be offended if their articles are edited, corrected, or not used at all.

If you're interested, please contact the PR Team at PR@mandalorianmercs.com

UNDER THE BUCKET

MEET NIK & NINA

By: Mike "Diz Ge'tal" Porter

You know, every so often you get to meet a couple of people in the MMCC who are entirely delightful. Nik & Nina of Shonare Vhekadla Clan, are just those kinds folks.

BATTLECRY: How did you discover the MMCC?

NIK: In my mind, that goes back to coming up with couples Halloween costumes, and at one point Nina said we should try our hand at cosplay. That just set my mind. Immediately I knew I wanted to build a Mandalorian. In the process of trying to look up how to do that, I discovered the MMCC is a thing, and then I was like, well, if I'm gonna build a Mandalorian, I might as well build the best Mandalorian.

NINA: Oh yeah, I remember that. It was at the last Nightmare Before Christmas party our friend hosted between Halloween and Christmas. We always came up with some great couple costumes and we really thought we nailed it that year, but nobody knew who we were supposed to be. That was when I said we clearly we need to look into cosplay with likeminded people. Nik quickly said, "so that's permission?"

NIK: That's when we dressed up as Guy and Molotov Girl from Free Guy; right?

NINA: Yeah, that's the one. I actually forgot that's how it started. I just figured Nik was a Star Wars super nerd and knew the MMCC existed.

NIK: I knew there are a lot of Mandos out there, but I just thought they were part of the 501st. In researching how to build a Mando, I realized the Mercs were their own thing and you get the chance to express yourself as a Mando."

BATTLECRY: What about the MMCC inspired you to want to join and to build your armor as a couple?

NINA: This is just something Nik has wanted to do since he was an itty bitty little boy and thought that seven minutes of Boba Fett was the most amazing thing in the world.

NIK: I mean, he definitely looked the coolest.

NINA: For me, I think there's definitely a huge nod to Trent, Ruus'alor Sol'yc supreme of SVC because I went with Nik to Trent's house one day and he asked me when I was going to start building a kit. I told him I don't know Star Wars near as well and wanted Nik to be able to enjoy this for himself. But Trent had planted enough of a seed that I started looking into what the Mercs do. And that was when I was like, okay, I'm digging the charity events and things like that

"WE FOUND OUT EACHOTHER'S STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES. LIKE, NINA CAN'T SPRAY GLOSS BLACK WITHOUT A DRIP"

NIK: As for building our armor together, it just seemed like fun and Nina was down to do it.

BATTLECRY: What were the challenges of building together, and how were they overcome?

NIK: We found out each other had strengths and weaknesses. Like, Nina can't spray gloss black without a drip.

NINA: Don't forget primer.

NIK: Yes, dripping primer too, which is somehow amazing. We've known how to work together for going on 15 years now. Just about everything we do we work together. But as far as the actual creation of something, just getting into it and seeing where each other's strong points were and maybe some weak points and just complementing each other as best we could. You know, if somebody was a little bit weak on something, how the other person kind of jump in and help and vice versa.

NINA: Yeah, and to that point, when one of us would get frustrated with something, it was kind of on the other one of us to balance it and encourage, give each other a motivational boost. Definitely one of the things that was challenging was when our paces would shift. For example, initially I was frustrated because it seemed like Nik was suddenly just sprinting past me and then he slowed down and I sped up and then I slowed down again. Staying at that even pace in the motivation was greatest when we were right about head to head.

NIK: Yeah, we're not competitive at all.

Nina: Ha! Right? But the really big challenge for me was when it came to the application process because we learned that I operate on Manriquez time even for this. Nik's application process was substantially quicker than mine, but we wanted to get approved together, which we ultimately didn't. Still we were approved within a month of each other. So that final leg of it was probably the biggest challenge for me.

NIK: Yeah, I suppose if Nina is going to mention it we should explain that all the women in my family run 15 minutes late, what we affectionately refer to as Manriquez time, and which Nina instantly fit in with.

NINA: Yes, and the fun part of that 15 minutes is that my catalog number is exactly 15 after Nik's.

BATTLECRY: (I haven't seen your armor, so I'm going off the cuff) Did you build/paint with a "family theme" in mind or did you each do your own thing?

NIK: We very much did our own thing.

NINA: Yes, we did. What was your inspiration for doing a more beat up Survivor desert kit?

NIK: Growing up in southern Arizona, you go shoot out in the desert a lot. And invariably, there's a rusted beat up old car that's just out in the middle of nowhere. I like to use the phrase forgotten by time. It's just been sitting there existing for however many years, full of bullet holes, just trash. I've always thought there's a little kind of unique beauty to that. And when I think of the desert, that's just what I think of is old rusted out, beat up cars out in the middle of nowhere.

NINA: So you wanted to look like one?

NIK: I feel like one.

NINA: Yeah, they do have their own uniqueness, don't they? I know my motivation with my color scheme is basically the reward that just keeps on coming because I wanted to come up with something that was going to be a little more fun, bright and kind of light that any little boys and girls that saw it would be like, ooh, that's pretty. I have received that very reaction constantly already. I'm also six feet tall and a very large female, so being able to feminize my armor to a degree was kind of a bonus for me.

BATTLECRY: Working together toward your mutual goal of membership, what did you learn about each other?

NIK: I learned that Nina can't spray black spray paint or gloss black without having puddles. We both operate in extremely different ways, you know, we would sit on opposite sides of one table and it was pretty obvious who was working on each side.

NINA: Oh, you're messy. You're messy.

NIK: Mm hmm.

NINA: As we got more involved in the process, it wasn't just building our kits. I would say we learned during the pandemic that we work really well together, this just gave us something new to do together. But in the process of working with Ruus'alor's and other officers of the clan, we jumped right into developing events and seeing what capabilities and opportunities we had just from the early standpoint as UM's. We were able to be a part of creating and hosting successful events that people enjoy, such as the semi-annual Forge & Feast weekend long BBQ/armor party and the Mardji Bantha Christmas gift exchange armor party. This is all about each of us taking on our own part. I'm good at organizing and keeping everything together as the hostess for the event and Nik oversees food and a little bit more of the direct interaction with everyone as far as what they're building, ideas and that kind of stuff.

BATTLECRY: You say that you haven't been OM's for very long, (only a couple of months) but in that time, have you been able to troop? If so, what is your favorite event? What makes it special to you?

NIK: Anything where I can really see kids get excited. For me, it would be a toss up between the first troop that we did together as handlers for the 4th of July parade in Flagstaff last year, which we just got to troop as OM's this year. The kids just go crazy for the Star Wars clubs in the parade, and I love it.

NINA: Yes! So many sticky fingered high fives from excited kids.

NIK: Oh yeah! And then the other one I did was for pediatric oncology Survivors's Day, there was an event that I was able to attend that Nina unfortunately wasn't able to. There was a little girl there that I later found out about because she was on the news. She was three years old and had survived leukemia and she was the most excited person I've ever seen in my life. It just put a grin on my face from ear to ear. So it's a toss up between those two. I'll just say anything where kids are super stoked.

NINA: I agree. So really it's almost like all of the events because the kids are always stoked. The 4th of July parade was amazing, and it was exhausting, in a great way. Definitely some wonderful reactions from kids, but I would have to say for me, it was actually the very first troop I got to do. I was still a UM, but it was my test run for my kit while my application was in. My biggest memory from that day was this little girl that ran outside after me, she wanted to know my name and asked for a picture with me. She only went up to my knees, she was so small, but her excitement was enormous. It was adorable! It probably also has to do with the fact that this first troop was on May 4th, so we'll never forget it.

BATTLECRY: Being a family, yourselves, and now being a part of a larger family of Mandos, what does "Family is More than Blood" mean to you?

NIK: To me, that's kind of just the way I grew up. My family was constantly adopting my friends. Everybody called my parents mom and dad, and you develop those tight friendships where they do just become family. Now on a personal note, I lost my mom three years ago and things haven't exactly been the same with my family since. The club has really filled the void in a way. I'm Hispanic and I come from a gigantic family anyway, so having a new 3,000 plus member family is par.

NINA: I come from a much more broken, very, very small family. I've always been more of a loner, a bit of an introvert as a result. But when I really think about this question, it makes me think of my husband, he's the person I chose. I didn't have to. I didn't have to love him. I didn't have to anything, but I chose him. And he is the most important person in my life now. So when it comes down to aliit ori'shya tal'din, my husband is my first proof that family is more than blood. The Shonare Vhekadla Clan and the MMCC have embraced us completely, taken us in as foundlings, developed us into the new OM's we are today, and the future OM's we plan to be with a greater level of involvement. So it really is all about the family that we choose and we've all chosen each other. I don't doubt for a second that every single one of them would have our back if we needed it. That's what I think family's more than blood is, is that choice that we've made to be each other's family and be there for each other no matter what.

NIK: Exactly!

WHAT IS THE ORDER OF ORI'RAMIKAD?

PART 2 - AN INTERVIEW WITH BRYN CIN'PRUDII

By: Raymond "Scarif Mando" Gayleard (PRO)

BATTLECRY: What is Ori'Ramikad?

BRYN: The Order of Ori'Ramikad (OR) is the most prestigious honor bestowed by the MMCC upon members who exemplify the highest ideals and consistently go above and beyond for the overall benefit of the club.

"THE OR IS NOT JUST AN AWARD,
BUT AN ONGOING
HONOR THAT MUST BE CONSISTENTLY EARNED"

BATTLECRY: How does someone earn OR?

BRYN: Earning the OR requires both talking the talk and walking the walk. Individuals must prioritize the needs of the club over personal ambitions and demonstrate a willingness to contribute in any area. Those who receive the OR have typically surpassed expectations in various aspects of club involvement, going the extra mile wherever assistance is needed.

BATTLECRY: How many OR members are there?

BRYN: While I am not sure of the total number, the MMCC inducts 4-6 members into the OR each year. Currently, there are approximately 20-30 active members of the Order.

BATTLECRY: What does OR mean to you?

BRYN: To me, the OR is not just an award but an ongoing honor that must be consistently earned. It serves as a constant reminder of the ideals that I should strive to embody, motivating me to be the best version of themselves for the club. I feel a sense of awe that someone even nominated me, and the Order deemed me worthy, driving me to continue growing such that I may continue to be worthy.

BATTLECRY: What do the OR do for our community/club?

BRUN: Members of the Order of Ori'ramikad are actively involved throughout the club, often holding high-ranking positions at both the club and clan levels. They provide valuable guidance and wisdom, contributing to the growth and development of the community.

BATTLECRY: What does being in the Order of Ori'ramikad mean to you?

BRUN: Being part of the Order means a whole lot to me. It inspires my commitment to continue making meaningful contributions in so many different aspects of the club, from clan level leadership to all my other team roles. It means my work is never fully done, pushing me to pursue ambitious dreams that positively impact the Star Wars community, such as unifying local clubs and fostering a shared, enriching culture.

MEET: BIGFANG CLAN

By: Alex "Katra Dromaar" Maciel

We reached out to Kal Vizsla, Alor'ad of Mexico's BigFang clan, who was gracious enough to answer our questions! We're also trying something new, in presenting the interview in both Spanish and English we hope to honor the native language of the clan.

SPANISH:

BATTLECRY: ¿Cuándo se creó el clan?

KAL: Formo parte de manera oficial a finales de 2007, y el clan fue fundado en 2008 con solo 3 miembros. El nombre "BigFang" esta inspirado en que por nuestra zona del país, los restos paleontológicos más comunes son de mamuts y en los museos siempre se pueden ver los cráneos y sus grandes colmillos. Unir ese concepto con la leyenda de los mythosaurios fluye en forma inmediata.

ENGLISH:

BATTLECRY: When was the clan created?

KAL: It was formed unofficially near the end of 2007, and the clan was founded in 2008 with only three members. The name "BigFang" is inspired by the fact that in our region of the country, the most common paleontological remains are those of mammoths, and in museums you can always see their skulls and huge tusks. Combining that idea with the legend of mythosaurs was very straightforward.

SPANISH:

BATTLECRY: ¿Cuántos miembros oficiales tienen ustedes?

KAL: Actualmente con 17 activos.

ENGLISH:

BATTLECRY: How many official members do you have?

KAL: Currently we have 17 active.

SPANISH:

BATTLECRY: ¿Dónde centras sus esfuerzos de caridad?

KAL:

Realmente es muy poco lo que hacemos por caridad, pero cuando se da la oportunidad nos gusta apoyar en proyectos externos donde nos invitan, como recaudaciones para el apoyo de estudiantes de bajos recursos, Desarrollo cultural y artistico de la niñez, donde exponen muestras de arte. Desfiles donde los beneficiados son los niños que son de organizaciones benéficas. Si bien la mayoría se trata de recaudar apoyo monetario en donaciones, directamente nosotros como clan jamás aceptamos o tomamos parte de eso, al contrario, apoyamos para que quienes reciben esas donaciones las reciban directamente en el momento. Nuestro apoyo es sobre promocionar el evento en nuestras redes, apoyando en la organizacion, hasta acomodando sillas si es necesario. El apoyo es a todo tipo de nivel.

ENGLISH:

BATTLECRY: Where do you focus your charitable efforts?

KAL: We don't actually do that much for charity, but when the opportunity arises, we like to support external projects where we're invited, such as fundraisers for low-income students, cultural and artistic development for kids, where art exhibits are exhibited, and parades where the beneficiaries are charity organizations for children. Although most of the donations are monetary, we as a clan never directly accept or take part in them - on the contrary, we support those who receive these donations so they receive them directly at the time. Our support consists of promoting the event on our social media, assisting with the organization, and even arranging chairs if necessary. Our support is on all levels.

SPANISH:

BATTLECRY: ¿Cuál es la tropa favorita del clan, que sea una convención o cualquier otra?

KAL: Hay dos principales, son en el mismo lugar, una es Animex, y la mas grande es LaConve, hemos participado con stand desde hace mas de 15 años

y hace un par de años tuvimos el gran honor de contar con la visita de nuestro Mand'alor en persona y convivimos durante el evento, una cena y fiesta especial por su visita.

ENGLISH:

BATTLECRY: What is your clan's favorite troop, be it a convention or otherwise?

KAL: There are two main ones, both in the same location: Animex, and LaConve. We've had booths here for over 15 years, and a couple years ago, we had the great honor of having our Mand'alor visit us in person and hosted him during the event, including a dinner and a special party celebrating his visit.

SPANISH:

BATTLECRY: ¿Tienes algo mas que quieres decir?

KAL: Desde los inicios formando parte de esta organización, hemos aprendido que cuando te lo propones lo puedes lograr, que puedes participar en tu comunidad formando parte de una bandera dentro del universo Star Wars. Vemos las cosas de manera muy singular, donde cada guerrero es tu hermano, donde Mand'alor esta compartiendo con todos su sueño, donde el sentido de pertenencia se ve representado al portar una armadura y se vuelve parte de tu vida, Mando Mercs nos ha brindado tanto que honramos buscando la manera de brindar o sumar con nuestro apoyo y participaciones. Mando Mercs es grande y especial porque los miembros que lo conforman son grandes y especiales y todos pueden formar parte de ello. Tenemos un grito de batalla en el clan, "Grita por Mand'alor: KOTE!"

ENGLISH:

BATTLECRY: Anything else you'd like to say?

KAL: Since our beginning in being part of this organization, we've learned that when you set your mind to it, you can achieve it, that you can participate in your community by being part of a banner within the Star Wars universe. We see things in the same way, where every warrior is your brother, where Mand'alor shares his dream with everyone, where the sense of belonging is represented by wearing armor and it becomes a part of your life. Mando Mercs has provided us so much that we honor by finding ways to contribute or add with our support and participation. Mando Mercs is great and special because the members who comprise it are great and special, and everyone can form part of it. We have a battle cry in the clan: "Shout for Mand'alor: KOTE!"

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 375 degrees.
2. On a lightly floured board, roll out pastry dough. Using a 3" cutter, cut out 42 circles; re-roll scraps as needed.
3. Fit circles into bottoms and slightly up sides of lightly greased 2 1/2" muffin pan. Meanwhile fry bacon until crisp; drain; crumble or chop.
4. Chop mushrooms, sauté in butter until limp and liquid evaporates. Combine bacon, mushrooms, green onion and cheese. Divide filling equally among the muffin cups.
5. In large bowl, beat together eggs, add sour cream and stir until smooth. Spoon about 1 tablespoon into each muffin cup. Bake until puffed and light brown, 20 to 25 minutes. Cool in pan 5 minutes; lift out.
6. Serve warm or let cool on wire racks. If made ahead, wrap cooled quiches airtight overnight. Reheat, uncovered, in 350-degree oven for about 10 minutes.
