

ACQUISITIONS OPERATIVE

BRIGADES

MMCC Brigades represents a distinct set of professions, with specific costume requirements known as Brigade Requirement Lists (BRLs). Members wishing to join a brigade must meet both CRL and BRL requirements to apply for recognition.

CHOOSE YOUR PATH. HONOR YOUR SKILLS. GO ABOVE AND BEYOND.

Acquisitions Operatives are masters of stealth, deception, and infiltration. They breach secure facilities to recover high-value targets, including data, technology, or individuals, then vanish before alarms are raised. Equipped with sleek, mobility-focused kits and slicing tools, they bypass guards, traps, and surveillance with ease. Their greatest strength is adaptability, because when getting caught is not an option, improvisation is essential.

Recon Droid

AQUISITIONS OPERATIVE

Acquisition Operatives carry a secure bag for acquired valuables and additional pouches for concealing the tools needed to access locked areas.

WEAPONS

Compact, easily concealed weapons make it easier to acquire objectives without drawing unnecessary attention.

Vibro Blade

Custom Blasters

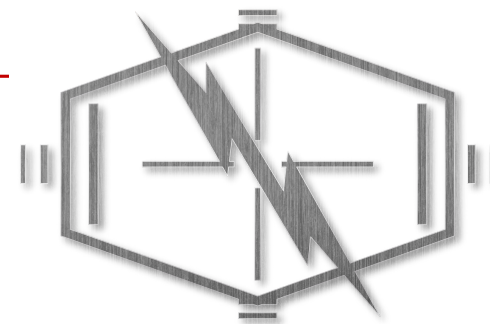

Holdout Blaster

Minimum required armor includes collar, chest, abdomen, back, cod/armored loin cloth, shoulders, gauntlets, and knees. Era-specific requirements apply regardless of which BRL is selected.

ARMOR

AQUISITION FEATURES

- Armor: Must be light with a streamlined silhouette.
- Gear Storage: Must include sufficient storage for equipment. Multiple pouches, weapon slings, and tool loops are required.
- Colors: Must be subdued and muted to help the operative blend into their surroundings and move undetected.
- Weathering: Must be consistent across the entire kit and reflect regular field use.
- Accessories: Loose or unsecured items that could detach and leave evidence behind are not permitted.

SPECIALIZED EQUIPMENT

Restraining Bolts

Breaching Charges

Code Cylinders

Signal Jammer

Shape-breaking Camouflage

Skeleton Key

Fusion Cutter

Vibropick

Mirrored Visor

Pry bar Multitool